ROYAL HEVSHAM ~

The Royal at Heysham began life as a grain store in the 16th Century. It was turned into a pub over 100 years later and became famous in the early 1900s for its nettle beer, brewed in the cottage next door by Granny Hutchinson.

Today, our inn has been lovingly restored whilst still ensuring a contemporary experience. We've maintained as many original features as possible to showcase the building's proud heritage; for example, a lintel inscribed with 1689, the year the building was extended. The inscription became obscured over time but can now be seen on display in its original home – the ladies' toilets!

The Royal is unrecognisable from the run-down buildings of recent years and now offers fabulous guest bedrooms, delicious food and award-winning beer from Thwaites' own brewery.

Joining the character of years gone by with the warm welcome that our guests receive. We hope you enjoy your visit with us.
